BY CHARLES MACAY.

A traveller through a dusty road Strewed acorns on the lea, And one took root and sprouted up,

And grew into a tree. Love sought its shade at evening time, To breathe its early vows,

And Age was pleased, in heats of noon, To bask beneath its boughs; The dormouse loved its dangling twigs, The birds sweet music bore,

It stood a glory in its place, A blessing evermore!

A little spring had lost its way Among the grass and fern; A passing stranger scooped a well, Where weary men might turn.

A ladle at the brink-He thought not of the deed he did, But judged that toil might drink. He passed again-and lo! the well,

He walled it in, and hung with care

By summers never dried, Had cooled ten thousand parched tongues And saved a life beside!

A dreamer dropped a random thought; 'Twas old, and yet 'twas new-A simple fancy of the brain,

But strong in being true; It shone upon a genial mind, And lol its light became A lamp of life, a beacon ray,

A monitory flame. The thought was small-its issue great; A watch fire on the hill, It shed its radiance far adown,

And cheers the valley still ! A nameless man amid the crowd That thronged the daily mart, Let fall the word of hope and love,

Unstudied from the heart; A whisper on the tumult thrown-A transitory breath-It raised a brother from the dust,

It saved a soul from death. O germ! O fount! O word of Love! O thought at random east! Ye were but little at the first, But mighty at the last!
